WJCC operator honors community partner

MTC presents William Hicks Anderson Community Center with its annual award

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – August 7, 2006

(WILMINGTON, Delaware) – Utah-based Management & Training Corporation (MTC) – operator of the Wilmington Job Corps Center – has selected the William Hicks Anderson Community Center as its “Community Supporter of the Year.” The local center was nominated for the corporate honor by Wilmington Center Director Anna Street and Sr. Accounting Clerk Kei-Shon Knotts.

“We are very pleased with the community support each of our Job Corps centers receives,” said MTC President Scott Marquardt. “In the case of the William Hicks Anderson Community Center, our board of directors feels it deserves our Community Supporter of the Year Award for the tremendous gesture it made in allowing our Job Corps basketball team to practice and play at the facility in exchange for community service provided by the students. Certainly a big part of our students’ success is due to the support of this and many other community partners.”

In her nominating letter, Kei-Shon Knotts said, “The community center provided outstanding support and generosity to our students. This organization saved the Wilmington Job Corps Center an estimated $8700 by not charging its normal rate for basketball practices held from November 28, 2005 through March 24, 2006. This valuable student program would have been very difficult to carry out were it not for this generous contribution.”

The “Community Supporter of the Year” award is one of eleven honors Management & Training Corporation presents each year, through its “Celebrating Excellence” awards program. Other honorees include students, educators and support staff.

In addition to operating – or partnering in the operation of – 25 federal Job Corps centers, MTC also operates 13 correctional facilities in the United States, Canada and Australia.
