MTC is committed to being a good neighbor and investing in the local community

MTC is proud to be a part of the community in Marshall County. Staff and inmates volunteer both time and money in the community, working with various non-profit organizations and other groups that benefit the local community. Representatives from local government, business, and civic organizations serve on the facility’s community relations council. Facility leaders share important updates and collaborate on issues important to the community.

“They’ve been so responsive. I can go to administration and say, ‘This is what I’m learning from the offenders, this is the research that’s out here, these are the things I think we might be able to try and see if it works here.’ And they’ve said, ‘let’s try it.’”

~ Dr. Linda Keena, Chair, University of Mississippi’s Department of Legal Studies, speaking about the partnership with Marshall County Correctional Facility, April 2019

“... you could ask 90% of the inmates here – and they’ll tell you that it’s above all other facilities when it comes to education. From the door to when you leave out, they’re pushing education.”

~ Rip Knox, resident, Marshall County Correctional Facility, April 2019
