

COMMUNITY RELEASE AND OTHER REHABILITATION PROGRAMS

Helping Nearly 400 People as They Transition Back to Society

MTC is dedicated to helping people successfully make the transition from prison back to society. We do this by providing effective rehabilitation programs, behavioral health services, and other vital resources to men and women living in community release centers or living at home.

MTC operates two community release centers in Florida where we help people prepare to fully return to society with the tools they need to be successful. We also provide corrections behavioral health services in North Dakota and state-of-the-art transitional housing, substance abuse, and tele-health opioid services to residents in Texas.

Community Partnerships

MTC is proud to be an active and engaged member of our communities. Our staff and residents invest countless hours every year working with various non-profit organizations and other groups. Representatives from local government, business, and civic organizations serve on our facilities' community relations councils. We deeply value these partnerships and friendships and know that together we help improve people's lives.

Diversity and Inclusion

We're all different in many ways and that brings great strength to MTC and to our mission to change lives through education and rehabilitation. We value and appreciate the diversity of the people we serve and our workforce. Our inclusive culture allows us to form respectful, engaged, and productive environments. More than 51% of our staff nationwide are people of color, with 55% being female. More than 74% of our facility leaders are people of color, with 62% of those we serve being people of color. At MTC we celebrate diversity, equity, and inclusion.
